LOCAL ATTORNEYS URGE PUBLIC TO VOTE IN FAVOR OF PROPOSED SUPREME COURT AMENDMENT

A statement regarding the proposed Constitutional amendment increasing the members of the Supreme Court from six to nine.

Until 1916 the Supreme Court of Mississippi consisted of three judges. The volume of business coming before the court had increased to the point where the court was over two years behind with its work. The number of judges was then increased to six and there has been no further change for thirty-four years. After this increase the six judges eventually caught up with the docket so that appeals could be disposed of within a reasonably short time after records were filed with the clerk.

For the past several years the work of the six judges has become so great, due to an increase in litigation and the size of the records brought up on appeal, that the court has gradually fallen behind again and now has a full year's work ahead of it, notwithstanding the fact that the number of cases handled by each judge is materially greater than nearly all the appellate courts of the nation.

Realizing that six judges are inadequate to handle the volume of litigation now coming up on appeal, the last legislature passed an act creating the office of Supreme Court Commissioner to help relieve the situation, and also adopted a proposed Constitutional Amendment to be voted on by the people on November 7th, 1950, so as to increase the court to nine judges.

The adoption of this amendment will not increase the cost of the state one penny as the commissioners receive the same salary as regular judges.

The commissioners are appointed by the Governor and the people have no voice in their selection. If the amendment passes, in due time the commissioners will become or be succeeded by regular judges, subject to election by a vote of the people, and thereby the people will be given the right to select all their judges instead of only six of them.

We endorse this amendment and urge the people of Hancock County to vote for it.

PRC Wildcats Seek Third Win This Saturday Against Perkinson Jr. College

Poplarville—The Pearl River College Wildcats will still be seeking their third win when they invade the home of their traditional rivals, the Perkinson Bulldogs, Saturday night.

The Wildcats will be in good shape for the annual fight against their nearest neighbors in the Junior college league as they came out of their game at Booneville with only one injury. End Jack Morris suffered a charleyhorse that caused him to miss one day of practice, but he is expected to be in good shape by the middle of the week.

Coach Holden has been stressing ballhawking in his drills this week, as five costly fumbles played a large part in setting up the touchdowns for the Booneville eleven that won a surprising 20-7 victory over the Wildcats last week end.

The Wildcats and the Bulldogs are both in the middle of disappointing seasons, but the following of each team would just about count the season as a success if their team wins this game. A special section in the Perkinson stands has been reserved for Poplarville followers. Tickets for this section are on sale at the president's office at Pearl River College.

New Orleans Artist To Paint Background for Next Little Theatre Production

Kit Kittinger, accomplished artist of the Vieux Carre in New Orleans, will come to Bay St. Louis this week to paint the background scenery for the "Great Big Doorstep" which the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is offering as the final major production of this season.

Of great local interest, the play centers around a Cajun family who live in the Evangeline section of Louisiana. The efforts of the various members of Commodore Crochets family to escape the monotony of life in Grass Margin and the "head dreams" of the lovable but lazy Commodore provide an amusing and interesting play.

The cast for the production was hand-picked for type and acting ability and while there are several newcomers to the theatre such as Wilmer Thibault, James Fillingame and Jeanne Larroux, most of the cast have been seasoned by one or more performances

FUN OR VANDALISM, WHICH?

It has always been the custom in this section of the country, for youngsters on the night of Halloween to roam the streets in costume and have lots of fun in a jolly, good natured way by ringing doorbells and calling out "tricks or treats" or by doing other harmless pranks, such as moving gates, soaping windows or auto windshields or many others.

But when it comes to destroying public or private property, that is something else and should be stopped or the offender punished. One instance of this kind took place in Waveland on Halloween night, when a group, out for a night of fun, tore down a tent which has been erected on Railroad Avenue for the purpose of holding church services until a church could be erected. The main posts were loosened causing the tent to collapse, thereby ruining the electric wiring and breaking many chairs inside the tent, besides the tent itself was ripped and torn almost beyond repair.

In cases of this kind fun ceases and vandalism begins and it should be stopped before it goes any further.

Sheriff Johnson was on the job early Wednesday morning in an effort to track down the vandals and we hope he gets them and sees that they are properly punished.

"IT'S LATER THAN YOU THINK!"

A news dispatch from a mid-Western state tells us of a worker who went to his job one day with visions of long years of fishing and rest ahead of him. He was to retire that day under a pension plan. The excitement, however, proved too much and he died of a heart attack thirty minutes after reporting for work.

No doubt, this man, like most of us, stayed on the job for years in the hope of coming to the day when he would not have to work for a living. So many men, and women, engaged in the business of making a living, plan to work full tilt up to a point and then, with economic security assured, take time off to do the things that have always been in mind.

There is nothing wrong with this type of planning except that, in many cases the individual dies before the opportunity arrives to carry out the program. It might be much better, in the long run, for individuals and the nation, if men and women took time off from their work to enjoy short periods of rest and leisure. There would be the gain of doing something desirable and the physical benefits that inevitably restore the failing strength of the body. Anyhow, our advice to readers, if they contemplate a period of rest, after years of toil, is to remember that "it is later than you think."

MEETING IN JACKSON NOV. 6 TO PLAN 1951 MARCH OF DIMES

A three state March of Dimes, pre-arranged, planning meeting will be held at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in Jackson, Miss., November 6, according to Dr. Felix J. Underwood, Chairman of the State March of Dimes Committee. The meeting will take place from 10:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m.

Every county in the state is expected to be represented at the Jackson meeting. Dr. Underwood said "A widespread polio outbreak has struck in Mississippi counties this year with a history breaking number of cases for the first ten months. Three hundred twenty three cases were recorded thru October 31 as compared to 329 for the same period in 1949, the previous high year. Never before has this enemy of our children struck so severely in two successive years. March of Dimes money has been used up in most counties and it has been necessary for the Foundation to send $106,000.00 to Mississippi Chapters this year to meet the requirements for patient care."

"More money is necessary and we must plan a March of Dimes Campaign which will give every citizen an opportunity to contribute to this worthy cause," Dr. Underwood concluded.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION

Industrial production jumped to a new post-war record in August, according to the Federal Reserve Board, which predicted that the gain would continue during September. The September index is expected to hit 212 which would not only exceed anything since the 220 mark of June, 1945, but also would be within 14 per cent of the historic peak of 247 attained in wartime October and November, 1943.

Threat of Coast-To-Coast Phone Strike on Nov. 9

New York—A long smoldering wage dispute in the huge Bell Telephone System broke out anew this week with the threat of a coast-to-coast telephone strike Nov. 9.

Only 16,685 equipment workers were involved directly, but they have the full backing of their union, the CIO Communications Workers of America, which pledged itself to honor the strikers' picket lines.

The CWA represents most of Bell's 300,000 employees. The main clash is between the big union's division 6, with 10,000 workers, and the Western Electric Co., the manufacturing and installing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Parent Bell Corporation. Some 6,000 distributing workers in 28 major cities also are involved, as well as 685 manufacturing employees in a plant at Haverhill, Mass.

Western Electric operates in every state with the exception of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. With the distribution workers, division 6 strikers could picket almost every major telephone exchange in the country.

The announcement came earlier this week after 13 months of stormy and fruitless bargaining that earlier led division 6 into an inconclusive eight-day strike last spring.

The CWA withdrew its support then, and the strike ended without causing a national shutdown. The new announcement, however, was made in Washington, D. C., by CWA President Joseph A. Bejmes, who said the international union had taken complete charge of negotiations.

The main issue is wages, although union security, travel allowances, and the terms of the contract also figure in the dispute.

A LESSON the Newspaper has NEVER FORGOTTEN

Newspapers, even the biggest of them, all started by being close to the interests, wishes and tastes of the people. They all started small, with limited capital, and those that deserved to grow, grew. Newspapers were not started by tremendous aggregations of wealth in New York or Hollywood with an "idea" to put over or sell. And many of the men who are successfully editing or publishing papers today started as boys—as printer's devils—in a country weekly office.

Newspapers have never forgotten that people want to read news about the people they know—their neighbors. In the Daily Herald you will find news of world and national affairs—but you will also find out about the doings and happenings on your own street and the next block.

National Home Demonstration Council In Convention at Biloxi, Miss., Visits The REA Co-op Building Here

The National Home Demonstration Council held its annual meeting at the Buena Vista Hotel in Biloxi last week. About one hundred fifty delegates, from thirty-six states, arrived in five buses to visit the REA building here and were served punch and homemade cookies by Miss Loyette Webb, REA Home Economist, assisted by Mrs. J. P. Rousseau, president of Clermont Harbor Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Haverd Burleigh, of Clermont Harbor, Miss., Madge Allred, of the Home Demonstration Agent, and Mrs. Howard Simmons.

Mrs. Rousseau as delegate from Hancock County and Mrs. Burleigh attended the convention sessions in Biloxi. The opening one was on Monday night, when a program of choral singing by the Oklahoma A&M College Glee Club was presented.

Another feature of the entertainment was "living pictures"; live people, portraying diVenci's "The Last Supper," Corot's "The Angelus" and Whistler's "Mother" and "The Peasant," which an explanation was read on each picture.

Justin Wilson, of Louisiana, entertained the visitors with stories of the Cajun country in Cajun dialect, which was particularly delightful to the northern guests.

On Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Rousseau, Mrs. Burleigh from Clermont Harbor and Mrs. A. G. Dantagnan, from Bay St. Louis went over for the day. They heard a talk by Clayton Rand on the "Combustible World" and about his travels in Europe during the summer.

On Wednesday afternoon there was a business session and that night in the Hurricane Room and Rose Room of the Buena Vista there was a shrimp jamboree. The setting was the garden of a lovely old Colonial home in Natchez. The delegates were seated at tables on the lawn, with the pillared house in the background. The mirror of the house was on the terrace, and while guests, who stayed to visit for a month, were with her on the terrace reading, sewing or milling about. The Mississippi delegates, dressed in old fashioned costumes, such as are worn in the Natchez Pilgrimage, gave each guest a corsage of cotton bolls tied with green ribbon. Negro mammas distributed plumes, and as each guest entered the room she was given an apron to wear while eating shrimp.

The H. T. Nichols H. S. Glee Club, of a school for colored children, sang Negro spirituals, directed by Gwendolyn Huff, principal.

It was a four day meeting from October 16th through the 19th, at the Buena Vista with more than 100 delegates from the United States, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

HELP PREVENT GRASS AND WOODS FIRES

Due to the dry weather, the opening of the hunting season and the work being done in pasture improvement in the State, J. F. Smith, chief of the fire control program of the Mississippi Forest Service called on all persons to lend every support to the prevention of grass and woods fires.

Mr. Smith points to the fact that many farmers, under the pasture improvement program, are clearing their lands and are burning their brush at this time. "As a safety precaution these fires should be started late in the afternoon when the winds begin to still and the moisture begins to rise," he said.

Attention is also called to the opening of the hunting season for squirrels on October 14 and sportsmen are urged to be careful with their smoking in the woods and to put out all camp fires. "At this time of the year the water in creeks and branches is exceedingly low and in some instances dried up entirely," he stated.

AMPUTEE AUTOS
Congress has completed action on a bill continuing for a year the Government's program of buying specially equipped automobiles for amputee war veterans. The measure authorizes an appropriation of $800,000 for this purpose, with a limit of $1,600 that the Government could pay on any automobile.

Cedar Point Good Neighbor Club Formed by Mrs. Haro; Have Monthly Meetings

Whether Mrs. Emile Haro of Cedar Point thought it up herself or whether she got the idea from our own government's "good neighbor" policy to other nations is debatable. Nevertheless, one day last month Mrs. Haro decided to call in a few of the neighbors for a social gathering at her home on Juna Street.

On Thursday night, September 21, Mrs. Haro gathered together a group of approximately twenty-five of her neighbors in Cedar Point. From this has sprung the "Good Neighbor Club" of Cedar Point.

Last week the meeting of the group was held at the home of Mrs. Dennie Tunkel on Dunbar Avenue. At this time plans were made for the coming year and the group played games. Light refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Mrs. Tunkel was assisted in serving by Mrs. Oscar Bragg and Mrs. Marguerite Backman.

The next meeting will be held on the third Thursday in November, the regular monthly meeting day, at the home of Mrs. John Rau on Dunbar Ave.

All residents of Cedar Point are welcome in the club which is purely social and has no officers, dues, rules or regulations.

The membership increase at each meeting and present members are: Messames Haro, Tonkel, Backman, Rau, Rando, Adams, Christy, Soits, Hauhan, Palmer, Martin, Bienvenu, Smith, Fayard, Costello, Alphonse Fayard, Joyce and Ojeda.

MOTORISTS NOW TRAVELING OVER FAMED NATCHEZ TRACE

Indians who more than two centuries ago traveled along tortuous wilderness trails between Natchez and Nashville would not doubt get something of a surprise today were it possible for them to speed along the Natchez Trace Parkway being developed by the federal government.

Twentieth century travelers will by next summer be able to cover 63 miles of the road over which early pioneers made their way into the Southwest Territory back in 1798.

Actually only 22 miles of the Parkway has been hardsurfaced to date. This section extends from Ridgeland on U. S. Highway 51 northeastward, touching Pearl River at two points. However, the National Park Service at present has projects totaling about $2,675,000 under construction in Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi. Forty-one additional miles in Mississippi will be completed by next June.

When completed eventually, the Trace will extend for 450 miles, following closely the original trails first made by wild animals, followed by Indians of various tribes in these areas of the South, and finally by explorers, pioneer settlers and soldiers.

By treaty with the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians, the United States acquired the right to develop the Natchez Trace into a wagon road and mail route in the early 1800's. But for many years the journey over the Trace remained a hard and perilous one—due not so much to the Red Man as to the blood thirsty bandits who found easy picking on the wilderness trail. Lafayette knew its hardships, as did Meriwether Lewis, Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and many another well-known figure of history.

Development of the historic road into a Parkway, extending between Natchez and Nashville, was adopted as a project of the National Parkway Service in the 1930's.

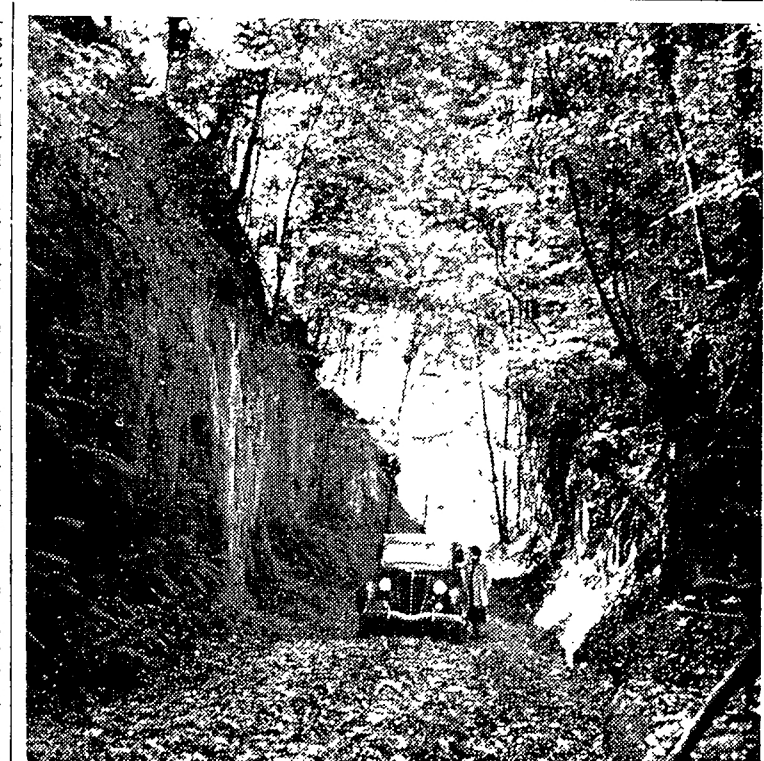

The Parkway has been designed exclusively for pleasure travel and is unique in that no advertising signs or commercial developments are permitted within rights-of-way being acquired by the government for the project. Commercial trucks are not permitted to use the road. Average width of the Parkway is 800 feet. The road being constructed by the Park Service follows closely the old trails which took advantage of the natural contour of the land.

The historic and scenic features of the area have been preserved by the builders and numerous picnic areas and nature trails have been placed along the route for the convenience of travelers.

Malcolm Gardner, superintendent of the project with headquarters in Tupelo, voiced some uncertainty as to how the international situation might affect the present construction program.

Actual work on the project started back in 1937, but all work was halted by World War II. At that time 105 miles of grading and minor drainage had been completed, including a section in the Ridgeland area. This latter section, Gardner said, was treated with a stabilization and smoothing which was not intended as a permanent surfacing. This rapidly deteriorated during the War years, as engineers expected, but has since been replaced with a smooth hard-surfaced covering over which throngs of Sunday and holiday motorists are traveling today.

In addition to the section of road completed in Mississippi, the Park Service now has nearly 39 miles of Parkway road nearly ready for hardsurfacing in Alabama and Tennessee. A total of 105 miles of right-of-way in Mis-

This is a section of the old Natchez Trace taken just prior to launching of the Parkway by the U.S. Park Service.

The Parkway as seen today just east of Ridgeland. The road is now hardsurfaced for approximately 22 miles northeast of U.S. 51. Park Service officials state that 63 miles will be paved in Mississippi by next summer.

issippi have been acquired by the government.

At Ridgeland the Parkway is planning to construct a district headquarters which will include an office, shop, warehouse and storage space. A small museum and information station is also being established for the benefit of tourists.

Historical markers also are being established at points of interest. One such marker will be found today at Brashears Stand, site of an inn on the Old Natchez Trace.

Evidence of life along the Trace in early days is still to be found. When the white man began to explore the southern part of the United States, he found a network of beaten paths, thought to have been made by buffalo or other wild animals. The Indians added others and turned many of the older ones to their own use as warpaths, hunting courses, or trails linking Indian villages.

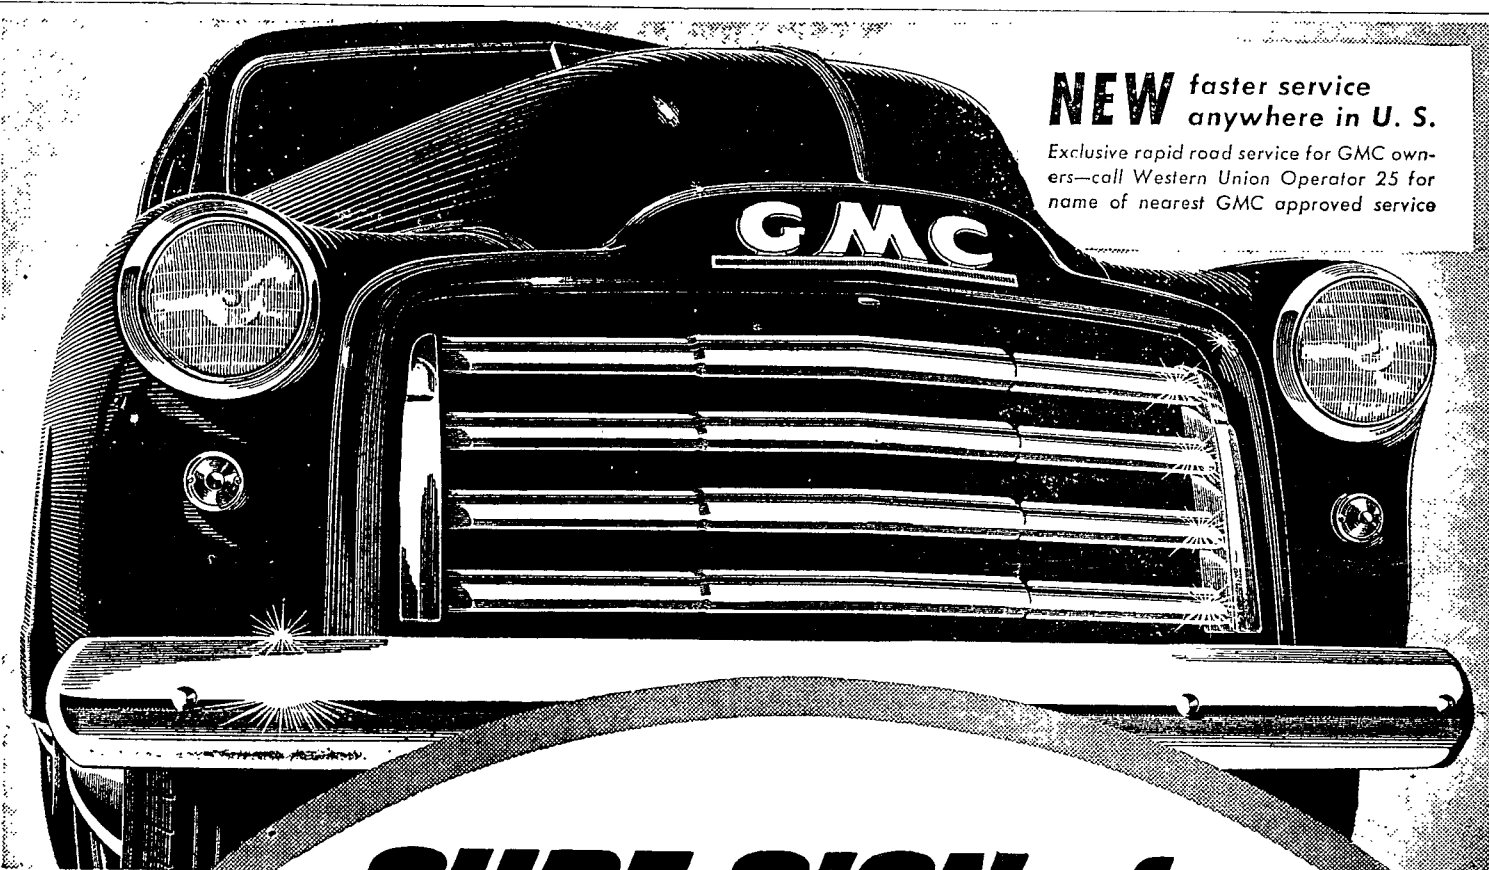

Pioneer settlers frequently called such a trail a trace, a word which in old French suggests its origin as a line of footprints or animal tracks.

These traces, or trails, the Park Service reports, "showed a marked tendency to follow watershed divides in an effort to avoid stream crossings and swamps, even though the distances were greater."

Joined together, these trails eventually became increasingly important after the coming of the white man, who used it in his military, political, and commercial activities while pushing into the region of the Gulf of Mexico or from the Atlantic Seaboard. Later it became known as the Natchez Trace.

Some historians even believe that the route of the Natchez Trace was used by Desoto who discovered the Mississippi River in 1542. Some day soon the modern automobile explorer will be able to traverse the route—four centuries after Desoto's history-making trip.
